

A gift of the season for the crayon artists

© 2025

During the years I worked for a poultry machinery manufacturer I thought it would be fun to wear a Chicken Christmas necktie to the annual company party. But I couldn't find any for sale. I resorted to making my own custom ties - a different image each year. Once the color art was completed for the neckties, it was easy to make a black line version as a coloring activity for the company children's Christmas party.

With my own engineering I am continuing the tradition each year. Please accept this seasonal gift for the crayon artists in your life.
